LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF THE WAR

Correspondence of the Associated Press

MAINZ, Germany, Sept. 16.—A visit to the officers' prison camp in the wonderful old citadel here, and a talk with the English, French, Belgian, Russian—as well as German—officers completely destroys the impression that personal antagonism and hate exists among the actual fighting men in the war.

The Mainz camp, which is one of the best war prisons of Germany, at present has a population of 555 officers, 60 of whom are British. The balance is almost equally divided between Russians, French and Belgian. Something over 100 common soldiers detailed as servants are quartered there in addition.

Both sides recognize in the other honorable opponents who have individually nothing to do with either the causes or the conduct of the war, and whom the misfortunes of honorable conflict either have shunned or hit.

Before the war the citadel of Mainz was a barracks. Its rooms and its quarters were emptied late last summer, and after being gone over by the whitewash man and the cleaner were turned into a camp. Its myriad rooms were found easily available for comfortable quarters for officers. Many of the higher and older men have individual apartments, and in none are more than a dozen men.

The buildings are in the form of a square about a huge enclosure, in which tennis courts have been built, and which serves excellently as an exercise ground for the officers. The scene at almost any time of day is one of kaleidoscopic variety as the red-tousled Frenchmen mingle with the khaki-clad Englishmen, and the brilliantly-uniformed Belgians walk with the Russians.

One of the largest buildings has been turned into a mess where the officers eat. Four meals a day are served—beginning with the customary continental breakfast of bread and coffee, a hearty dinner at noon, a lighter meal late in the afternoon and a lunch or supper before bedtime.

Until dark the men are allowed the liberty of the entire camp; after that they must retire to their rooms, but may keep lights burning until 11. At 7:45 in the morning they must be up and out. By a sort of self-government system two officers in each building are put in control or command each week, and upon these rests the responsibility of getting the men out promptly each day and of enforcing the rules regarding the life of the camp.

The men with whom an Associated Press correspondent had opportunity to speak recently agreed without exception that the food was good and sufficient in quantity. Twice a day the men are allowed half a bottle of wine or of beer with their meals, and in addition are able to purchase almost any variety of eatables, things to drink and to wear, as well as luxuries, at the camp canteen.

Sport figures prominently in the life of the men at Mainz, and scarcely a week goes by without a football or cricket match, a tennis tournament or some similar event. The Englishmen, despite their numerical inferiority, are as usual the leaders in all games and outdoor exercises.

INDUSTRY AIDED BY WORLD WAR

HOW BENEFITS ACCRUE TO AMERICA

RETURN OF PEACE WILL SEE NEW ADAPTABILITIES AND TALENTS WELL ROOTED

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—How every phase of American industry has been benefited by the world war was outlined in an official statement today by the department of commerce forecasting the effect of the conflict on the industrial future of the country.

"The blow in the face received by American industries through conditions brought about by the European war has acted as a tonic, has forced the nation to create new branches and enlarge the scope of existing phases of manufacture, opened the way to utilize, on a vast scale, great natural resources of the United States, and induced manufacturers and merchants to expand their markets into foreign fields with prospects of permanent results," says the statement.

"American ingenuity has been applied with success to the making of articles previously imported, and among those who have shown conspicuous ability in meeting the situation, an important place is given to Thomas A. Edison, 'America's scientific wizard,' who has had a great part in the enterprise and initiative required to build, at a moment's notice, some of the new American manufactures required by the emergency.

"A review of the chief industries ministering particularly to the temporary needs of the belligerents beyond the Atlantic shows that the final outcome will be a very material addition to the manufacturing plant of the United States. Part of this plant will be simply anticipatory of the normal growth of the country's mechanical equipment; part must lie idle in time of peace, but is a distinct asset in the national preparation for an adequate defense against attack; the remainder furnishes at once products needed in the healthy expansion of the chemical industry of the country.

"Less conspicuous and spectacular, but of far greater permanent value, is the impulse given to the manufacture on American soil, with American raw materials, of a variety of articles for which we have hitherto been dependent upon foreign skill and enterprise. In a more or less uncomfortable way, we have suddenly been brought to recognize the unwieldy, the folly, of shipping vast amounts of the crude material of our farms, forests, and mines 3,000 miles across the ocean, and buying it back in a manufactured form, at a greatly enhanced price. We have likewise come to recognize the absurdity of allowing many natural products of the tropics, of South America, of the far east, to find their way to Europe, and of paying foreign intelligence and skill to transform them into articles of daily need in our lives.

"American ingenuity, adaptation, inventive talent, scientific attainments, and general enterprise have promptly rallied to meet widespread demands, and establish on our own soil the permanent manufacture of a number of wares, some of minor, others of major importance. The return of peace will see them well rooted and able to withstand foreign competition."

MINE RESCUE TEAM GOES TO THE FAIR

MINE OPERATORS' ASSOCIATION WILL SEND PICKED SQUAD TO COMPETITION

A team of well drilled men from the various mine rescue and first aid corps of Tonopah will leave Sunday morning for San Francisco, where they will compete in the first aid and mine rescue tournament which will be given on the exposition grounds on September 23 and 24. The team is being sent at the expense of the Tonopah Mine Operators' association.

While the full crew is not yet picked, those who are certain to be members are Ernest Cole, Walter Wood, "Red" Berry, Pete Peterson, J. Monroe, L. F. Puncoschar and Ed Culinan. The squad will be under the command of Captain Berry.

WORK SUSPENDED

Arrangements are pending to re-coup the treasury of the Tonopah East-End Mining company, which recently installed new equipment. It was found that economical work could not be done with only one shift and the finances of the company at the time do not permit of running 24 hours a day, hence a slowdown until financial arrangements can be made for running three full shifts. Meanwhile the development shaft will be kept clear of water.

WOMEN AS JURORS

The county officials of Elko county have been busy for the past few days with the duty of drawing the venire of jurymen who are to serve for the next term on both the trial and grand juries. The question of selecting women on the jury came up and was disposed of on the ground that it would take until 1916 to get them on the voting list.

YUBA MILL EQUIPMENT

The Yuba Leasing & Development company has had a force of men installing equipment in the new mill this week and officials of the company say the plant will be ready for the initial try-out in about ten days.
